2010 SUMMER CAMP

Coaching

The 2010 Summer Camp is directed by BYU Hockey Head Coach Stan Weiss.

Stan's coaching career started over 20 years ago in Toronto, Canada where he was fortunate to coach some of the top young hockey players in the world.

Coaching at the 'AAA' level in one of the biggest hockey "hotbeds" in the world, Coach Weiss' development system produced some of the most prolific teams in Canadian youth hockey; winning 26 of 32 major international tournaments over the course of 6 years.

After moving to Utah in 1995, Coach Weiss went on to coach at the Junior and College levels, his most recent position as Head Coach of the BYU Cougars' hockey team.

Coach Weiss will be accompanied by his current coaching staff, as well as current and past players who understand and can effectively teach his development methods.

2010 Summer Camp

BYU Hockey's Summer Camp provides a comprehensive training program which helps young players to learn Individual Skills, Team Skills, Team Systems, and some aspects of Team Strategy. Each session builds on the skills acquired in earlier sessions.

This camp serves as an excellent "tune-up" for the upcoming season!

- Individual Skills—Players will be schooled through a carefully designed progression of drills, emphasizing power skating, edge control, puckhandling, passing, and checking.
- Team Skills—Emphasis will be placed on reading and reacting techniques as well as multiple player timing development.
- Team Systems—Players will be taught the basics of breakout systems, neutral zone transitions, and offensive attack options.
- Team Strategy—Will be touched on lightly throughout the camp.
